2 December 2021: October's Entered Orders, Measuring Progress, and Historical Lessons from India

This is EXHIBIT "A" referred to in the affidavit of [REDACTED] affirmed before me in Vancouver, British Columbia this 1st day of November, 2022.

A Commissioner for taking
Affidavits in British Columbia

Friends,

We recently received back orders entered by the Registry. These were made by Justice Crerar on 1 October, 2021, following our second Judicial Management Conference and on 28 October, 2021, following Dr. Henry and the Provincial Crowns' application for further and better particulars (details). The practice direction (a set of customs) requires that orders be formally entered by the Registry, though this is often a formality that litigants dispense with.

These documents are available at the aforementioned links. They are also archived under our Court Documents.

Although we do not discount other metrics, we do not measure our campaign's progress based on the number of attendees at protests, YouTube views, social media shares or likes, prominent public figures courted, endorsements received, favourable media coverage, or funds raised. We have a single canonical metric we use to benchmark progress, and arguably the only one that matters: Court orders and meaningful procedural steps undertaken to obtain them.

I understand that many of you have become increasingly restless over the last year. The measures in question are amplifying, civil liberties continue to dissolve, overwhelming evidence of public harm outweighing any purported benefit emerges daily, and you are awaiting a process devised in England in an era when the average citizen was illiterate, correspondence was carried by ship, and it was normal for a mother to be publicly executed for swiping a cabbage in the marketplace. It is expected historically that a proportional response by certain reactionary elements within our society would make itself present at some point.

We routinely receive communications from the general public with knowledge of the personal residence of this or that cabinet minister, public official, their agents, various salacious details concerning the aforementioned's personal lives, and the desire to make their grievances heard. I have gone to great length to dissuade them from harassing or in any way creating a provocation, generally with great success even when our opponents continue to act in bad faith.

There are at least two reasons for this. In reducing your conduct to meet the coercive level of your adversary, it degrades our ethos and consequently our credibility. Secondly, even a cosmetic reading of history makes it clear that such activities will only lead to our opponents predicated new or increased extraordinary executive powers on such events.

When a government resorts to Medieval coercion, it is not because it is strong, but because it is weak and cannot obtain what it wants on the merits of its ideas being considered. Governments that lie are not fully in control. If they were fully in control, what citizens believed would be inconsequential. They lie because they are dependent on something you still have control of.

The British Empire, what was once the world's most formidable economic and military power, invaded and occupied what was then the wealthiest country in the world. The British cabinet's policies in India were brutal, violent, and would not have been tolerated in their own country. In 1897 the British presence even declared a pandemic with a disproportionate response that allowed confiscation of individual property, entry of personal residence, and forced quarantine whenever it was politically expedient. The army relied on tools of coercion and violence justified by a legal system which was of their own design and entirely self referential.

Eventually the British presence was brought to its knees prior to its subsequent eviction in 1947 after nearly a century of plunder - the spoils of which are still celebrated today with the Koh-i-Noor, one of the world's largest cut diamonds remaining among our sovereign's Crown Jewels. A small, frail, and elderly Indian man garbed in a toga and sandals made it happen, and without firing a single shot - that having already been tried many times.

Granted, Gandhi originally proposed a constitutional challenge before abandoning the notion and, indeed, his entire career in law as a barrister. But the point is that you do not always need to resort to the same level as your opponents in order to defeat them, even when there appears to be a gross asymmetry of power. You are not the first in history to experience what you are living through now. India did it without arms and you can to.

Please be patient and let this process run its course.

Believing for a breakthrough after all the hard work of your team. And yes, as your summary mentions there are indeed "suicidal terminated nurses" some are housekeepers now. Thank you for all you guys are doing. So many have forgotten or given up...

Is there a court case about the heinous crime of not using Ivermectin. The safest cheapest solution discovered early in the pandemic. Beginning April 2020 and then with the US congressional report given by Dr. Pierre Kory in December 2020. Used with great success in 20 countries the most dramatic example being Uttar Pradesh, India. I had emailed my local and provincial politicians and was just given the standard party line. As the judges justifications to dismiss is that Covid is serious maybe Ivermectin is the key to unlock the collusion. As there couldn't be emergency use authorization if there was a viable alternative.

Don't worry. This is just proof that they are finished. More and more will see the injustice here as a result of this. No law left in Canada. Just a matter of a short while now as they use the little money they have left and I hear they are fighting like cats and dogs over that. Watch the escalation in rights abuse coming which will show to many sheep the absurdities. Don't worry.

Government is the biggest mafia in the country, is it any wonder that the judges are part of that same mafia? Any surprise that they protect their fellow mafia members? Government, and all of its entrenched elite bureaucratic class is the enemy of the people.

Lucas Chudleigh
 The original quote was found in Europe, after multiple scientists were jailed attempting to find out if German gas chambers did in fact kill millions of Jews.
 "Truth does not fear investigation"
 It's an interesting parallel, since the German people exiled the Jews for doing exactly what they're doing now - instituting communism and authoritarian regimes through financial means.
 To understand your future, you must first observe the past, or be doomed to repeat it.
 Unfortunately, most of our society believes the propaganda about WW2 and we are living out the repercussions of that.
 Isn't it interesting that we are constantly finding "new" evidence of slavery and horrible deeds done to the Native American people, which is a very touchy subject. But anytime a researcher or scientist attempts to unravel new evidence from WW2, they're jailed without cause, due to "sensitivity issues".
 There is little hope our people can overcome this darkness, because we refuse to observe truth without agenda.
 And so we are forever manipulated into one crisis after another.

Been following Deena Hinshaw's case as well. One would have to be blind at this point to not see that the government is hiding PHOs

Whats the point? All the judges are bought off and are servants the the Turd and his partner FreeTwat. Our system is completely broken and there is no truth. Only threats, lies and the breaking of people by this government.

Canadian Society for the Advancement of Science in Public Policy do ypu honestly think you will get a fair judgement or even assessment? Judges from supreme court and down are all bought. Prime example is we have 4... 4 political prisoners in jail for public mischief and some made up criminal charges becausevthey participated in a LEGAL protest. If Randy Hillier is stepping down and publicly saying our system is broken, how can you expect a fair hearing? Turd and FreeTwat will never allowvuou to get past the front door. War is upon us and courts are too slow to act. Turd announced dig id today and the tyranny begins and he wont be happy until half of uscare dead from the poison we are shot up with and the remaindet become slaves.

Brandy,
As a member of CSASPP I felt the need to respond to your comment as I can relate to it.
I too, and many members of the team and in the informal steering committee have been cheering on the truckers and feeling a sense of unity.

We are not criticizing the convoy in principle, just the neglect of certain basic administrative tasks that have ended up causing us and ourselves difficulty. It has been very difficult and frustrating having to deal with the fall out from events and even other lawsuits that affect ours, we are not singling them out. We need to remain realistic with a razor sharp focus on the prize as ours is a judicial matter rather than one of the heart.

We do realize the convoy was organized very quickly and not expected to get as big as it has. They have clearly done an amazing job peacefully uniting the country (the world actually) and personally I actually feel proud to be Canadian again. They are extremely well organized in their code of conduct, that has been exemplary even in the face of violence and for that we have nothing but respect.

I donated because enough is enough. Stop naming the common flu in order to scare people into giving up basic rights and freedoms. Our rights to travel, congregata, refuse medication, and breathe freely do not come from government. They are universal rights belonging to all humans. The violation any of those should be considered an act of war against our bodies and we the victims should react accordingly. My health is nobody's responsibility and the health of others, (as cold as it may sound) is not my responsibility.

It is important for liberty and justice to have a voice. When we are mandated to act in a way that threatens our economic and social understanding of life as we know it, we must stand up and ask why? I can't afford to do this, but I am. I am appalled by the government's approach, this country seems to have turned into Communist China, where our rights have been stripped, solely for the reason of exercising INFORMED CONSENT, MY BODY, MY CHOICE, MY HEALTH. My wife is losing her job with the BC Government, for no reason other than protecting her health by not taking the experimental mRNA gene therapy. We believe and acknowledge the success of Ivermectin, HCQ, Vit C&D, Zinc, Quercetin and NAC as successful early therapies, that the BC Government has ignored and BANNED. Organization suing Henry moves forward in attempt to film hearings

By Reid Small Oct 29, 2022 7

img alt="Thumbnail image of a woman speaking."/>

Nearly five months ago a British Columbia-based non-profit known for its various legal challenges directed at the province's COVID-19 mandates began efforts to obtain permission to stream BC Supreme Court hearings — which has never been done.

The potential webcast is in regard to the Canadian Society for the Advancement of Science in Public Policy's (CSASPP) class action suit against provincial health officer, Dr. Bonnie Henry, filed on January 26, 2021.

The class action aims to hold Henry accountable for the province's COVID-related measures implemented in March of 2020, when Henry declared a state of emergency. The case is not to be mistaken with CSASPP's forward-moving petition for healthcare workers faced with vaccination mandates, as well as its recently axed — and potentially appealed — vaccine passport petition.

Contingent upon a December 2022 certification hearing, trial dates have been locked in for April 2023 for the class action.

Regarding public access to its hearings, CSASPP has noted instances where people wanting to attend previous hearings have been unable to get a seat in the gallery.

"Others have mobility issues because they are disabled, making it impractical to get to the courthouse," CSASPP's executive director, Kip Warner previously said.

"And yet others are able bodied, but simply cannot afford to travel from Hope to Vancouver with the rising cost of fuel."

Earlier this year the organization devised what it called a "simple solution" and that was to broadcast its hearings live to the public over the internet.

Now the application is set to be heard November 7, however the society no longer seeks to live broadcast the hearings, but rather stream a recording each following day at 5 p.m.

"This is to give the parties time to ensure privileged information has not accidentally been recorded, such as sensitive conversations between co-counsel or their notes," Warner said Thursday.

The constitutionally protected open court principle provides the public the right to observe the court process, albeit in an often archaic fashion.

The judge overseeing the class action previously recommended CSASPP bring a formal application to expand the open court principle, and after reviewing the literature, Warner says he believes the court is more likely than not to be willing to "redefine what open court means in the 21st century."

"If we prevail, again, this will establish a precedent that will have ramifications across the province, if not nationally, for other proceedings," he said.

With the hearing now locked down for 9:45 a.m. on November 7 at 800 Smith Street, Warner asks those planning on attending to leave signage and other protest paraphernalia outside of the building.

"If we obtain a favourable judgment we can reassure everyone that they will be able to attend our certification, Dr. Bonnie Henry's trial, and any other hearings, no matter their location or means," said Warner.

What is the problem with the public viewing court proceedings? The trial of Bonnie Henry should be made public as her bias mandates effected so many people. It's only right that the citizens of BC should be able to see how justice will be done in this very important trial.

That organization is throwing us a red flag. This is theatre. Leave the media out of it.

Bonnie Henry, just another in the health field that needs locking up or worse.

Leonidas Oct 29, 2022 8:22pm

"Health field" is the oxymoron of the millennium. If people would live healthful lifestyles, 96% of the industry, particularly Big Pharma, would be permanently out of business. The faux food industry would have to be put down first, however.

Maybe Bonnie can share a cell with Deena Hinshaw from Alberta! 🙄

The death, destruction, corruption and lies that this alcoholic psychotic Covidiot N@zi big Pharma pig is responsible for is incalculable. In a just society she would be facing the death penalty.
