I interpret the letter as an informal motion under Rule 54. However, Rule 54 is only available as a last resort and it is not for the Court to give legal, practical or tactical advice to any party: Bernard v Canada Revenue Agency, 2015, FCA 263 at paras 39 and 43. Here, counsel has not identified any ambiguity or uncertainty in the Rules that would justify resort to Rule 54. In the result, if the Plaintiffs wish to file a motion for an extension of time to appeal, they are free to do so." placed on file on 23-APR-2024 Confirmed in writing to the party(ies)
