
OSSTF/FEESO ACTION PLAN TO SUPPORT EQUITY AND ANTI-OPPRESSION

OSSTF/FEESO Action Plan to Support Equity and Anti-Oppression

The Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation (OSSTF/FEESO) is a strong, independent, socially active union that promotes and advances the cause of public education and the rights of students, educators and educational workers. While establishing working conditions for its members, OSSTF/FEESO also works to build strong public services, preserve academic freedom, prevent the privatization and commercialization of our educational institutions, ensure that students receive an education that is free of bias and discrimination and provide an equitable opportunity for all students to succeed in a strong, well-funded public education system.

As an organization that prides itself on being a defender of publicly-funded education, OSSTF/FEESO has worked to meet the challenges of addressing equity and social justice. Anti-oppression work is not easy. Like the society we live in, OSSTF/FEESO is not immune to having a troubled history when it comes to the marginalization of equity-seeking groups. We recognize that groups of members within OSSTF/FEESO are still experiencing structural and systemic discrimination such as anti-Indigenous racism, anti-Black racism, racism, homophobia, transphobia, ableism, and sexism in the present day.

Over the years, equity activists within the Federation have asked their union to take up the calls to action to focus on eliminating barriers to participation. This is evident in the OSSTF/FEESO Equity Statement, which sets out in the opening paragraph,

“OSSTF/FEESO is a democratic union that recognizes the importance of encouraging and supporting involvement by all members, while recognizing that some members have historically been marginalized. For the Federation to be at its best, all members must see themselves reflected in its goals, structures, and practices.”

Based on advice from members, often those who belong to marginalized groups, we have attempted to implement a number of initiatives and programs to address inequity within our union and beyond. Over the last decade, OSSTF/FEESO has:

- established the First Nations, Métis and Inuit Advisory Work Group, Equity Advisory Work Group, and Black Persons and Persons of Colour Advisory Work Group to advise the Provincial Executive
- provided caucus meeting spaces for equity-seeking groups at the Annual Meeting of the Provincial Assembly, Summer Leadership training, and at all conferences hosted by the Provincial Office
- surveyed members in 2011 and 2016 to determine the level of participation of equity-seeking members as well as barriers to participation
- implemented a process for voluntary self-identification to collect demographic data at Federation functions to inform future decisions regarding programs and practices
- supported professional development and training for members by creating workshops and resources on Truth and Reconciliation, combating anti-Black racism, allyship, history of Canadian Black lives, Canadian women's history, equity and anti-oppression, racial justice, challenging misogyny, addressing homophobia and transphobia, and challenging classism
- ensured equity training is available to local leaders, the Provincial Executive, and Provincial Office staff
- established an Equity Officer role and an in-house staff equity work group to coordinate equity initiatives
- implemented a pilot mentorship program for members of equity-seeking groups to increase access to leadership opportunities

- advocated and negotiated adequate funding for public education in order to meet the real needs of all students in Ontario including racialized students
- negotiated over $84 million in funds over a two-year period to assist in addressing special education, unique learning needs, mental health initiatives, and promoting safe, healthy and caring schools
- established national and international solidarity and participation in events related to Indigenous/First Peoples, including the National Indigenous Education and Reconciliation Network, and the Indigenous Educators Network/Red de Educadores Indigenas as part of the Initiative for Democratic Education in the Americas (IDEA Network)
- engaged in networks and coalitions with many international organizations and unions advocating for equity and social justice issues in education, including the Tri-National Coalition for the Defense of Public Education (Canada, Mexico, United States), CoDev Canada (promotes social justice and global education in Latin America), Bangladesh Center for Workers' Solidarity, the South Africa Democratic Teachers' Union (SADTU), and Federación Colombiana de Trabajadores de la Educación (Colombia). In addition, we provided support and solidarity through our coalitions with the Ontario Federation of Labour, Canadian Labour Congress, Canadian Teachers' Federation, and Education International
- supported annual donations and advocacy to a number of organizations promoting equity and social justice, including but not limited to: Coalition of Black Trade Unionists, Common Frontiers, Migrant Rights Network, White Ribbon Campaign, Ontario Coalition for Better Child Care, EGALE, Workers Action Centre
- involved in recent advocacy, outreach, support and project work with a number of organizations promoting equity and social justice includes, but not limited to: United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), Facing History and Ourselves, Feed Ontario, Ontario Association of Interval and Transition Houses Anishnawbe Health Network, Accessibility for Ontarians with Disabilities Act Alliance, Black Youth Helpline

Yet, despite our efforts to date, we have fallen short in ensuring equity of access among our own membership. Our organizational structures have produced unintended consequences, leaving some groups in the membership out of the decision-making process. Simply put, we must recognize that there are groups of members that have been marginalized by our own structures, policies, and procedures as a result of unconscious bias. Some groups are still less likely to hold formal Federation roles in many of the highest governing bodies of OSSTF/FEESO. Recognition may make us uncomfortable, and it should. While it is difficult to accept our collective shortcomings, the time has come to open the organization up to a thorough review and scrutiny at both the local and provincial levels. This work is hard, it takes time, and it must be done.

The responsibility of those in leadership positions to do better is charged to us by our own Equity Statement, which, in part, says:

“The marginalization of certain groups must be specifically recognized. For OSSTF/FEESO, these groups include, but are not necessarily limited to, women, people of colour, lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, queer, intersex, questioning, two spirit, First Nations, Métis, Inuit, people with disabilities, francophone, and those whose participation is impeded because of their creed, economic circumstances or family status.”

We must affirm that we will respond to the lived experiences of those who are marginalized. This is why we will need to purposely dedicate efforts and resources to identify barriers to participation as well as putting practices in place to eliminate them.

We have made and continue to make use of the internal expertise that exists in the Federation. As part of the process, the Provincial Executive has also sought the expertise of an external consultant to provide training on understanding how to challenge forms of oppression, and in particular, anti-Black racism. This expertise has helped us to create a set of principles that can guide us as we do this work. These guiding principles will help us to identify where change is needed (our goals) and how to implement those changes (our strategy).

Our commitment to this work is expressed in the following:

VISION

OSSTF/FEESO commits to dismantling all forms of racism—including anti-Indigenous racism, anti-Black racism—all forms of discrimination, and all forms of oppression within the Federation and beyond.

GUIDING PRINCIPLES

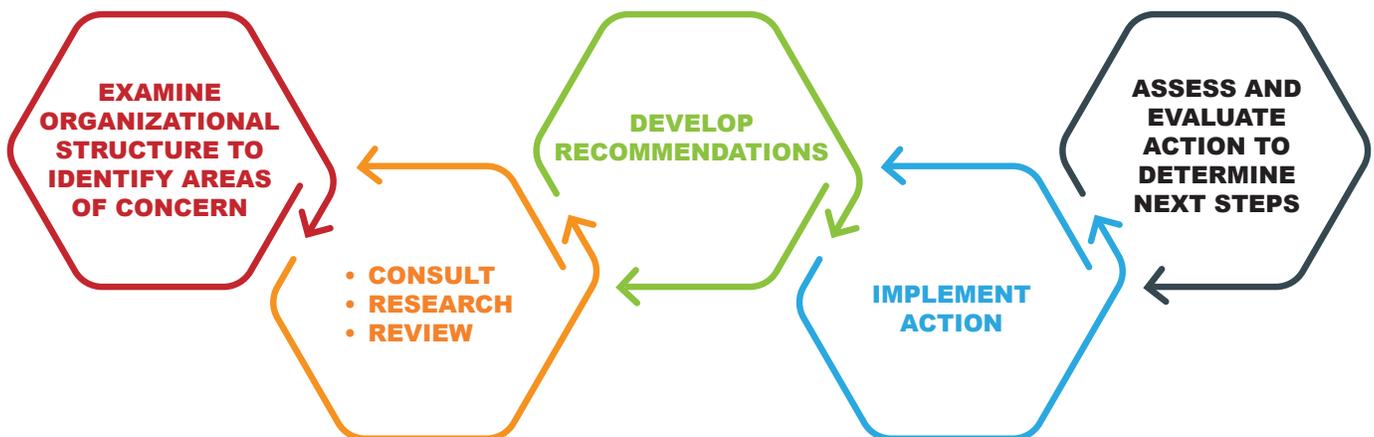

The Federation will keep the following guiding principles at the centre of the work we do to address our vision:

GOALS

- address disproportionality and disparity in member engagement and participation
- increase opportunity for member voices from equity-seeking groups
- build capacity through leadership opportunities
- advance the cause of public education and the rights of students, educators and educational workers
- promote anti-oppression in the publicly-funded education sectors, the labour movement, and in the broader society

STRATEGY*

*This strategy is not a set of linear steps. As we address our goals, we will find ourselves starting in different places and revisiting different steps as necessary.

Looking ahead, we will use these guiding principles to undertake an intense review of OSSTF/FEESO. To do this effectively, we must be prepared to seek input, particularly from those with lived experiences from marginalized groups, and to reflect on our structures, policies, and priorities on an ongoing basis. Regular review of our work and its efficacy in addressing systemic discrimination is paramount to getting this work on the right path. It is essential in our efforts to be responsible to the membership by assessing if we are sufficiently fulfilling our commitment to confronting and addressing oppression. Removing barriers to member participation is going to take courage for those in leadership positions to face our own biases and acknowledge the privileges that have benefited many of us.

Building on our ongoing commitment to dismantling racism—including anti-Indigenous racism, anti-Black racism—all forms of discrimination, and all forms of oppression within the Federation and beyond, OSSTF/FEESO has added expertise to advance this work.

In the fall of 2020, Provincial Council requested that the Provincial Executive create the Black Persons and Persons of Colour Advisory Work Group to advise Federation in the work on reducing barriers to member participation and fostering equity and inclusion within OSSTF/FEESO. The newly formed ten-member advisory work group met in early February.

As well, OSSTF/FEESO is in the process of hiring for a newly created position—the Equity, Diversity, Inclusion (EDI) Coordinator—an individual who is an expert in developing a culture of representation and value in equal opportunity. The EDI Coordinator would be knowledgeable in developing strategic plans and drafting policy to facilitate programs and practices to meet our goals of inclusion and representation. To that end, collaborations and partnerships across various groups and individuals, both internal and external, to drive positive change would be both necessary and crucial.

We have also expanded the number of staff assigned to the equity portfolio. We now have four secretariat members who have specific responsibility for equity initiatives. Notwithstanding these assignments, we recognize that the work of all Provincial Office staff must align with our vision and guiding principles.

With input from members of our provincial First Nations, Métis, Inuit Advisory Work Group, Equity Advisory Work Group, Black Persons and Persons of Colour Advisory Work Group, Human Rights Committee, and Status of Women Committee, we have placed a spotlight on the work needed to examine the union at all levels. In keeping with our guiding principles, we have identified a framework with initial areas of concern, and possible actions for each of the organization's structures (Appendix A). While this list of concerns is not exhaustive, it is a first step.

Recognizing structural and systemic discrimination within society and our organization provides us with both the opportunity and the responsibility to go beyond responding to incidents and dive into the deeper work of foundational change. Still, we cannot do this in isolation just as a Provincial Executive or just as Provincial Office. This change also needs to happen at the local level, together with the membership, and in particular with input from members belonging to equity-seeking groups. Along the way, even with the best intentions, we may disagree, we may falter and misstep in our approach and efforts in addressing all forms of discrimination. When that happens, we will also need to rely on criticism and feedback, and be willing to consider new ideas. Together, as an organization that represents 60,000 members and hundreds of different job classes in communities large and small, we will need to embrace the necessary work that is ahead of us.
